24	No. The situation has not arisen.	11/3/2016 2:48 PM
25	I wish. I ran a playgroup for EI families for 2 years, pro bono, and the results were incredible - families were very satisfied with their children's growth. I believe that "natural environments" sounds good, but that it is deceptive language, like "Citizens United" or "No Child Left Behind." Frankly, I believe that EI does not want to fund services in groups or in centers, because when families get to know each other, they get more vocal, more empowered, and more likely to spread the word about this valuable service that should be much larger, more visible, and better-funded than it currently is. Dividing providers up to do all the work in isolation, battling traffic and everything else, keeps Early Intervention weak. We need better working conditions to retain more quality therapists.	11/3/2016 12:27 PM

26	I am to pick up very few EI children, as they seem to be picked up by others before I can respond to emails. The few children I have picked up request services in their homes.	11/3/2016 12:25 PM

29	All the children on my case load are able to be seen in their homes	11/3/2016 9:34 AM
30	I work with Spanish-speaking families that have mothers at home full time & home is the place where children are. I took a family to the library once (recent immigrant family) to get a library card & enroll for ESL classes, & had to pay back EI for that visit during monitoring. I was discouraged from exploring community services for the families.	11/3/2016 9:27 AM

44	It depends upon the. Concern	11/1/2016 2:04 PM
45	I will on occasion, but those environments aren't necessarily where the child would normally be (essentially making it a non-natural environment) and that makes it harder for the family to follow through on suggestions.	11/1/2016 1:51 PM

Q8 Would the opportunity to serve the child/family in a safe space, e.g. library, community center, school, childcare facility, within the community increase the likelihood that you would provide services in an underserved neighborhood?

8	Work convenience	11/14/2016 10:55 AM
9	Usually the issue is more getting to a family's location than their specific home.	11/14/2016 9:39 AM
10	I already treat all children from underserved areas. Many families seem to appreciate the opportunity to meet at a place where other families receiving EI services are.	11/13/2016 10:51 PM
11	Because the safe space would still be in an unsafe neighborhood	11/12/2016 7:50 AM

15	Unfortunately the hospital will not allow this; however, what keeps us from serving more families here is our waiting list/limited number of therapist outpatient hours, and difficulties of getting here for some families.	11/7/2016 5:46 PM
16	Children in at risk situations need us most. If they have to live there, I can visit there.	11/7/2016 5:32 PM
17	I see kids regardless as long as I can feel safe (see in neighborhood location, etc)	11/7/2016 4:52 PM
18	depends on location near my home	11/5/2016 7:38 AM
19	I serve many areas but driving to and from (and parking within) some areas is unsafe. I try to cluster clients in areas to avoid long commutes in between children, and some areas may have one safe street and then an unsafe place two blocks away. Too difficult to build caseload while maintaining safety.	11/4/2016 5:21 PM
20	YES but the logistics of getting families there are often difficult, difficult for parents, schedules and interests in doing so.	11/4/2016 4:04 PM
21	Hearing tests must be conducted in a controlled hearing environment.	11/4/2016 10:09 AM
22	it doesn't matter to me	11/4/2016 9:39 AM

24	I don't feel that any of the homes or neighborhoods I visit are unsafe	11/3/2016 11:58 PM
25	That's not the primary reason I don't serve those areas	11/3/2016 11:21 PM
26	I currently serve in these areas and I trust that if the service coordinator feels the home is safe I do as well	11/3/2016 10:14 PM
27	i typically have limited times available and like to schedule families on the same day in the same general area	11/3/2016 6:55 PM
28	I am happy to service underserved areas as long as scheduling allows	11/3/2016 5:14 PM
29	ABSOLUTELY!!!! For me, safety is a small (but significant) part of it. The most important factor is condensing time. When I serve three families in their homes, it takes me 4-6 hours to do so, plus gas, because of travel time. If I could see three families back to back and actually be done in 3 hours, the time saved would be enormous. Early Intervention is never going to improve services to families until it improves working conditions for providers, and this would be huge. Also, many families are grateful to get out of their houses, and hungering for opportunities to learn from other families.	11/3/2016 12:27 PM
30	It is more the distance from other visits and my home that is a factor than if it is the home or other environment	11/3/2016 11:20 AM
31	I do serve families in underserved areas	11/3/2016 10:33 AM
32	I feel safe in my community. It's not a problem work in clients' home for me.	11/3/2016 10:01 AM
33	I already work with that population	11/3/2016 9:34 AM
34	If child were not familiar with that space, I am not sure it would be good for initial eval.	11/3/2016 8:45 AM
35	Probably because I would still have to park, walk (and it's dark in the winter earlier) in that neighborhood	11/3/2016 8:03 AM
36	I used to serve these communities but now that I only work part time, it takes too long to get there from my home.	11/3/2016 7:34 AM
37	I stay close to home due to family reasons	11/2/2016 8:41 PM
38	Not appropriate for PT	11/2/2016 7:04 PM
39	already see kids in multiple settings in different neighborhoods	11/2/2016 8:36 AM
40	Seem to have increased cancellations/no shows when asking families to travel for therapy.	11/1/2016 10:25 PM
41	I don't mind going into "bad" neighborhoods.	11/1/2016 3:57 PM
42	I'd pick up the children in their homes if I had the time.	11/1/2016 3:37 PM
43	Depends on availability more than location	11/1/2016 3:02 PM
44	I don't have a problem going to the family's home.	11/1/2016 2:57 PM
